Conditions Existing and Problems to be Overcome

The present system of the administration of the affairs of the Students' Union was instituted in 1908. At that time the organizers of the Students' Union saw the possibility of devising a system of Student Government closely patterned after the democratic ideal. The result was that the Legislative form of Government was carried out by the Students' Union in assembled meeting. The executive function of the Government as handled by the Students' Council and the Judicial Branch of Government was left to the Students' Court. The members of the Union were thus enabled to gain some experience in the various problems of Government.

In the last few years, however, there has been a feeling that the organization has not been operating as it was intended. There has been a difficulty in properly and efficiently carrying on the Student Union business. The fact seemed to be that the Union—as a Union depending for its strength on the continued and active interest in the details of student business of a large number of students—was fast weakening. The student body had grown from a mere handful of several hundred to a body of about 1,000 students. No longer did each student carefully follow each and every student activity. No longer were there few faculties and only one or two class buildings. Scattered among eight faculties and departments and having little or no contact with other than his faculty students, the later day student did not take an interest in the Student Union affairs. It became increasingly difficult to secure a quorum at meetings of the Union, only 80 members being needed. The only meetings lately possible were those called at 11:30 a.m., and then only about 300 students attended, and little business could be transacted.

As the result of this condition of affairs the Students' Council was compelled to handle all Union business though not authorized to do so. Attempts to alter plans, set in motion important projects and develop student activities along with the increased membership and financial resources, were continually hampered. Fears of being called to account by the Union for exceeding its authority invested every forward movement of the Council, and it was impossible to achieve progress and decisive action.

It was in order to secure an escape from this state of affairs that the Students' Council recommended to the Union that the Committee be appointed to bring in a report on a new and more efficient system of government. The Committee was appointed as above set out.

The Committee met on a number of occasions during the summer, and

The Committee's Report

With this special issue, The Gateway presents the report made by the Committee on Student Government. The first part (A) briefly describes existing conditions, the need for a change, and the findings of the Committee.

The second part (A1) is the amendment to the present Students' Union Constitution which, if passed, will incorporate the changes into the Constitution.

B is a supplementary report dealing with discipline and the Students' Court, and B1 is the amendment proposed to the Constitution dealing with discipline.

C is a report on Athletics and athletic decorations. C1 provides an amendment to the Constitution in the light of the report.

Read the whole report carefully. A special meeting of the Union will be held on Friday to discuss the report. If it is accepted, the amendments will be voted on at a time which will be set by the Union.

a full discussion of every question was had. The Committee had the advantage of the counsel and assistance of several past presidents of the Union and other interested alumni, and studied the different forms of student administration followed by a large number of universities in Canada and the United States.

Unforeseen difficulties arose in the convening of the Committee, as some of its members were scattered throughout the province. As a result the members of the Committee were compelled to work independently, informing each other of progress by means of circular letters. It was found possible, however, for full meetings of the Committee to be held in Edmonton throughout the summer. All day sessions were held at the home of the Secretary, Reg. Hamilton, through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, to whom this Committee is gratefully indebted.

Synopsis of Agreement Reached

After careful consideration of all the factors involved, the Committee has seen fit to prepare this report, advising the Students' Union to adopt changes in the constitution, such that the control of all student activities will be vested in a small representative Council and not in the student gathering, as at present.

As set out above, it has been found impossible to convene meetings of the Union to consider legislation. The only alternative then was for the legislation business of the Union to be transacted by some sort of representative committee, more easily brought together. The problem before your committee was to decide the form of government which should be adopted by this Union. There were two plans considered: one, that a large assembly council of thirty or so members elected from the different faculties act as the legislative body and that a council of about ten members act as an executive council; the other suggestion was that a council of ten alone be the sole legislative and executive authority of the Students' Union.

Both suggestions received the fullest consideration in committee meetings, and the committee unanimously adopted the scheme presented herewith. The council constituted, as advised, possesses the advantages of both schemes suggested above, and few of their disadvantages. The idea of unified control was most particularly emphasized in committee discussions. Therefore we find it is believed most practical to place both legislative and executive authority in the hands of a single moderately sized council. This council being composed of sixteen members, would not be too large for executive work, and at the same time representative enough of every side of student opinion as to be most capable in enacting fair and well-balanced legislation.

It will be seen from a consideration of the suggested membership of the council that every organization of students is represented. The students on the council as outlined should be the most capable and well-informed students in the University. They should, by virtue of their positions, have the respect and confidence of large numbers of the students they represent. The Associations spending the most of the Union funds are represented by the Presidents and Secretaries respectively. They are the Men's Athletics and Women's Athletics and the Literary Association. The general officers of the Union, President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer may well represent the student body at large. The Committee seeking the formation of a more representative body agreed, that the Presidents of the five faculties should be members of the council and also the President of Wauneitas as an additional representative of the Women. "The Gateway" is not represented, partly because it has independent financial support and partly because the members of the committee feel that there is no necessity for an editor who should be independent of student politics to be a member of the council. This council is, in the opinion of the committee, of sufficient size to incorporate all branches of student opinion; and at the same time, not too large to effectively discuss and decide the important matters that will come before it.

The inclusion of the faculty presidents in the council is an innovation at this University. The faculty clubs have heretofore existed apart and independent from the Union. Of late years, however, the faculty clubs have become increasingly stronger with the growth of the student body. A large percentage of students do not enter into any other club functions and have their athletic, scientific and social interests confined to their faculty club. It is therefore felt by the committee that these students should be represented by their club presidents. It will be noted that only the five official faculties are mentioned and not the sub-faculties and departments.

The exclusion of representatives of the sub-faculties and departments such as Pharmacy, Household Economics and Dentistry, may appear at first sight to be unfair; but it is believed by the committee that the president of the senior faculty in each case will represent the sub-faculties.

The composition of the council, as above outlined, would be as follows:

Honorary President,
President,
Vice-President,
Secretary,
Treasurer,
President of Athletics,
Secretary of Athletics,
President of Literary Association,
Secretary of Literary Association,
President of Women's Athletics,
Secretary of Women's Athletics,
President of the Wauneitas,
President of Medical Club,
President of Arts Club,
President of Science Club,
President of Agriculture Club,
President of Law Club.

Having provided a council properly constituted to carry on legislative functions of the Student Government, the Committee very carefully considered the council in relation to executive work. The number of members is not too large for the Council itself to act as the sole executive body. Several of the members of the committee, however, emphasized the fact that certain of the executive work of the Union could be more efficiently carried on by a small committee of four of the more important officers of the Union. The committee concluded that there were certain routine matters and some special business, requiring prompt action on the part of the executive officers that may be looked after by such a committee. Therefore your committee has inserted in the scheme of amendments annexed to this report, a clause setting out that the President, Secretary, Treasurer and one other member of the council constitute a standing committee to care for such routine and special business, or the Council as a whole may delegate to it. It will be noted that this committee has authority only up to the date of the next council meeting, and as such will not at any time become what could be termed an inner executive.

The committee is strongly of the opinion that a safeguard in the form of a check on the authority of the Council should be in the constitution. It is provided that if any number of students should object to the decision of the Council on any matter, such decision could be vetoed by the vote of a meeting of the Students' Union called to consider the same. This meeting to be held within ten days after notice of the Council's action had appeared in "The Gateway." The meeting to be called by the President of the Union only on the presentation to him of a petition in writing signed by at least one hundred students. The quorum at such a meeting to be two hundred members of the Union.

The incorporation of the above provision in the constitution is recommended by the committee, not from the fear that it is necessary, but because it will provide a safeguard which may be relied upon to prevent any council over-riding the true opinion of the Students' Union as a whole concerning any matter. The getting of a time limit of ten days in which the protested matter must be brought before the Students' Union definitely overcomes any danger of uncertainty in regard to the legality of legislation. Prompt action on the part of opponents of the council's decision ensures that the council will either be speedily upheld by the Union or definitely instructed in regard to such contentious matters.

In following this plan, it is hoped that a strong and able council will efficiently manage the affairs of the Union, and by close attention and careful exercise of judgment, give student government worthy of the University.

B

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT No. 1

Discipline

The committee very carefully considered the position of the Students' Court in student affairs, and it is the unanimous opinion of the members of the committee that the Court has outlived its usefulness. It is no longer capable of exercising the authority it was intended to have by the originators of the scheme. The general age limit and feeling of responsibility on the part of individual students has, of late years, decreased. Under the circumstances the idealistic system in force can not operate. There is a strong reluctance on the part of every western youth to interfere in the liberty of his fellows; and it is very difficult to find capable students willing to assume the responsibility of reporting and prosecuting his fellow students for the violation of seemingly trivial regulations.

The students' court to the mind of the average student is a failure in the majority of cases. Only trivial matters occupy the solemn attention of a full court and a large array of counsel. The serious and more important violations of the students' code are, in the unalterable opinion of the average student, not allowed to come before the Court, but are dealt with by the Provost and the Committee on Student Affairs directly. If by any chance the matter has become public and brought before the Court, the average student is convinced that the judgment of the Court is dictated, at least by indirect pressure, on the part of the faculty officials.

Though the Committee realizes that the above opinion is not fully justified, nevertheless such is entertained by a number of the student body and the student Court is, therefore, not respected as it should be.

It is the opinion of the Committee that a new system of enforcing discipline should be instituted. Possibly such matters could be dealt with summarily by the Provost and the student rely on appeals to the Committee on Student Affairs. It may appear that a better plan would be to have a small council composed of faculty and student members to consider cases quietly and without needless legal wrangling and unnecessary publicity, give judgments in accordance with the severity of the offence. The Committee suggests that this Council be composed of two faculty members and three students. The Council should not be bound by precedent or formalities of procedure. The offenders to be brought before this tribunal by the Provost and the officers of the Students' Union. The informant in each case should be compelled to appear and give evidence. The meetings of this Council at all times to be held in camera.

Respectfully submitted,
